Dear Mr. McNair:

Thank you for your letter of invitation for the President and Mrs. Bush to attend the 2004 Super Bowl Breakfast in Houston, Texas, on January 31, 2004.

Your invitation is very much appreciated. However, I regret that the President's and First Lady's schedules preclude them from attending what will surely be an enjoyable event. Unfortunately, because of the heavy demands on their time, they must often miss special occasions such as this.

The President and Mrs. Bush have asked me to thank you for thinking of them and to convey their best wishes to all who participate.

Sincerely,

Bradley A. Blakeman

THE WHITE HOUSE

Dear President & Mrs. Bush,

The 2004 Super Bowl Breakfast is coming to Houston on January 31, 2004 as part of the NFL-sanctioned events surrounding the Super Bowl. As Co-Chairmen of the 2004 Super Bowl Breakfast Host Committee, we would like to invite you to be our guests at this prestigious event and to serve on the 2004 Super Bowl Breakfast Host Committee. Being on the Host Committee simply requires you to lend your name in support of this event and be listed on the Super Bowl Breakfast letterhead and invitation.

This event started in 1988 and is an awards program that features the presentation of the Bart Starr Award for character and leadership in the home, on the field and in the community. The NFL players vote on the award and this year's winner was Trent Dilfer of the Seattle Seahawks. Past winners of the award include Reggie White, Mike Singletary, Anthony Munoz, Cris Carter, Bruce Matthews and Aeneas Williams.

The Super Bowl Breakfast is unique in that it is an outreach to top-level business executives in the Houston area. NFL athletes and coaches will share about their successes and failures, their families and their faith in God. We usually have a sell out crowd of 1500 executives in attendance. The Super Bowl Breakfast packet contains samples from this year's event in San Diego along with other information about the event.

We would also love for you to consider being a part of the program. The event will be held on Saturday, January 31, 2004 from 8-10 am at a venue to be decided by the NFL.

We will follow up with your staff in the next few weeks. We look forward to having you as our guests at this unique event.

Sincerely,
